Restaurant Booth

Restaurant Booth.

The restaurant booth at the Confederate fair March 16th-26th, will serve salads, sandwiches, coffee and ices. The front of the booth, which will be one of the largest in the room, will be draped with flags, held by the headlights of a locomotive. A fringe of railroad lanterns, red and green, will, hang below, cutilining the arch of the opening. A placard over the stail will announce: "Twenty minutes for refreshments."

Various other signs pertinent to station funcheon counters will be conspleuously displayed. The young ladies who serve will wear conductor's caps, and carry, each of them hanging from a long neck chain, a nickel punch, with which all supper tickets will be duly marked. The walls of the booth will be decorated with a dado and frieze of time tables.

In one corner will be a small booth with the aign: "Parcels checked here," over it. At this will be sold bon-bons in boxes, reproducting suit cases, shawl straps, golf bags and other traveling empedimenta. Supper tickets will be sold at a well counterfeited railroad ticket window, and the hit of the evening will be the young lady who will personate the ticket agent. A blue coat with brass buttons will be worn over her muslin gown. At the Annual Dinner.

The box which attracted most attention at the annual dinner of the Southern Society of New York in the Waldorf-Astoria in this city, was that of Judge C. F. Moore, of Covington, Va. Its guest of honor was Miss Hallle Ermine Rives, the Southern novelist. Miss Rives was dressed in a white lace princess costume made wholly from the lace of her great-grandmother's wedding gown, and reserved for great occasions. The slim authoress' popularity in New York was evinced when she entered the box by numbers of the diners rising and lifting glasses. Mr. Allen Caperton Braxton, of Btaunton, Va., by a neat turn in his speech, made reference to Miss Rives' Revolutionary novel, which is at present such a success. Mr. Braxton was very conspicuous as a leader in the State's recent Constitutional Convention. "Our type of the Southern citizen," he said, "has great difficulties to cope with. But the South has 'Hearts Courageous' to overcome all." The allusion was heartily applauded, Miss Mary Ashley Bell, who left Richmond some time ago for New York, will return about the middle of March to visit relatives here. She will remain until about the first of April, and will sail on the 7th of that month for Burope to study under some of the best vocal teachers of the continent.

Miss Emma Pemberton, of No. 804 west Marshall Street, gave a most enjoyable box party Friday night for the building fund of Immanuel Baptist Church. Not-withstanding the bad weather a good sum was realized.

Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hutzler announce the eigagement of their daughter, Miss Rhonie Hutzler, to Mr. Lee A. Whitlook, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Whitlook, of No. 205 East Grace Street.

This announcement will be a matter of great interest to the many friends of the young couple. Miss Hutzler is a beautiful young lady, who, through her attractive personality and lovely voice, is widely known and greatly admired. Mr. Whitlock, who is equally popular, is a valued member of the firm of M. S. Block & Co.

Jones-Tyler.

Jones—Tyler.

One of the unexpected marriages of the past week was that of Miss Clara Livingston Tyler, the daughter of Mr. H. W. Tyler of the West End, and Mr. Robert Edward Jones, an employe of the P. A. Arthur Company.

Encountering opposition, the young couple left by the early morning train on Wednesday last for Washington, where they married at 9:30 A. M. by the Rev. A. W. Pitzer, the bride, who is a pretty brunette, being gowned in traveling costume. Returning to Elohmond, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will make their home at No. 420 West Marshall Street.

Table Souvenirs.

As far as shown, the Missourl table at the Confederate Bazaar has the prettest table souvenir. It is of calluloid, with the Missourl coat of arms and State motion on side, and the crossed flags against a background of red, white and blue on the other. It makes an extremely clover and artistic tape measure, one which all women will long to Missouri chairman has a band of devoted assistants, and everything pertaining to the table and State interests will be well looked after.

The ladies of the Arkansas table have secured a unique and attractive souvenir for their table, through Mr. Caperton, local agent of the Whitehurst & Hong Company, in the shape of a celluloid street car ticket holder, showing the State coat of arms on one side and a handsome cut of the "Middle," emblematio of the "Arkansay Traveler," on the other in colors.

The souvenir was especially designed, and the Arkansas table will get the benefit of its first appearance in Rich-

Pettus, who holds a responsible position in the shippards at Newport News, were married at 8 P. M. Thursday in the home of the bride, the Rev. Mr. Melton, the pastor of Marshall-Street Christian Church, performing the ceremony. Immediately after the wedding Dr. and Mrs. Pettus left for their future home, in Newport News. in Newport News.

Cards have been issued by Mrs. Rosena Levy to the marriage of her daughter. Miss Marion Levy, to Mr. Samuel S. Rosendorf, one of the best known young business men of Richmond. The ceremony will be performed at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening, March 16th, at the Jefferson Club.

Mr. McClury's Offer.

Mr. McClury's Offer.

Mr. Glibert McClurg, of Colorado Springs, the well-known writer and lecturer, has, through the daughter of President Davis, Mrs. Margaret Howell Davis Hayes, made a very graceful offer to the chairman of the Central Committee of the Davis Monument Association in the following words:

"It would be the greatest pleasure to me if my stereopticon illustrated lecture, telling the story, legends and romance of Colorado, and particularly of the Pike's Feake region, something of its climatology and picturing its glorlous scenery, might be given in Richmond, New Orleans and in other Southern cities for the benefit of the Jefferson Davis memorial fund.

"There would be no charge whatever for my services, and I should esteem it a great compliment to be permitted to give the lecture under the auspices of the Memorial Association,"

Silver Wedding.

One of the most elegant affairs of the season was the silver anniversary on Thursday last of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rowman at their home, on Chestnut Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Manson Grubbs. Miss Florence Bowman and Mr. Clayton Bowman, received their friends from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and white carnations, a stringed orchestra furnishing the music during the evening.

An interesting feature was the presentation by the groom of twenty-five years before to his fair bride of a second wedding ring, the blessing being bestowed by the Rev, D. K. Walthall, paster of Mispah Church.

After congratulations the company repaired to the dining-room, where all the delicacies of the season were served, the table decorations being carnations, widle ropes of sliver, entwined with smilar, extended from the chandeller to the four corners of the table.

Numerous, handsome presents attested the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Bowman,

Dr. Moore to Become Head of Anti-Saloon League.

PURPOSE OF THE LEAGUE

It is Fully Set Forth in a Statement Issued by the Executive Committee. Not For Total Ab-

Dr. Gordon B. Moore, of Furman University, has accepted the position of su-perintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, to which he was elected on Wednesday

THE POLICY OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

In introducing to the people of Virginia, Dr. Gordon B. Moore as spokesman for the Anti-Saloon League, the Executive Committee take this opportunity to state again the scope of the league's purposes and the methods by which it is proposed to carry them out. NOT A CAMPAIGN OF DENUNCIA-which it is proposed to carry them out. NOT A CAMPAIGN OF DENUNCIA-TION.

First, let it be said that the league is not set for the abuse of the men who are engaged in the liquor traffic. Many of these men we know and are glad to call them friends. Some of them began the liquor business years ago, when the odium now attaching to it did not exist. This being so, wholesale denunciation of such men for not having anticipated the moral advánce of the public mind as to the liquor traffic would be manifestly unfair. We wish to reason with them, rather than to denounce them. Such a course, as many instances testify, has brought the liquor dealers themselves either to remain neutral in a local option election or to withdraw voluntarily from the business. Where this occurs, it means more than a victory; it is discovering a friend in a supposed foe. They happen to have put their money and energy into a business which an advancing public conscience now condemns.

LEAGUE IS NON-POLITICAL.

vancing public demns. LEAGUE IS NON-POLITICAL. demns.

LEAGUE IS NON-POLITICAL.

The Anti-Saloon League is neither a political party nor a total abstinence society. While it identifies itself with no political party, it does seek to induce each person to do what he can to promote the cause of temperance in his own party. The League is inter-party and inter-church. It believes that patriotic men in all the parties exerting themselves in concert on this issue can do what perhaps is impossible 10. a separate party to accomplish. The Anti-Saloon League is entirely distinct from the polibidinal may respect the convictions of linenbers of that political party. It is not part es, but men, that the League seeks to influence. Our objective is public opinion, which lies behind parties. The issue within the purview of the Jaloon as an institution. A leading editor in this State recently remarked that has soloon is nine-tenths of the evil of the liquor traffic. That remark singles out aprity the work of the Anti-Saloon League.

As the League is non-political, so it is not primarily legislative. It does not wish to frame nor force bills in the General not primarily legislative. It does not wish to frame nor force bills in the General Assumbly, If members of that body do of their own accord bring forward meas-Assembly. It members of that body of their own accord bring forward measures relating to temperance, the League considers it within its province to voice it a saintiment of the people of Virginia as to that particular bill. In these instances the pressure, if such there is that of the people rather than the League. It is in this regard only a vehicle for the expression of public opinion upon ten, perance matters. Rightly would the Legislature resent dictation by any organization, no matter how patriotio. It is however, believed that no legislatur is everse to knowing what the people think about every measure upon which he is called to vote. The vested intrests of the ilquor traffic have long contrived to gag public opinion as to temperance matters. Hence the need has arisen for an organization to give full force to the popular will in regard to the saloon.

NOT TOTAL ABSTINENCE. The Anti-Saloon League does not dea with the subject of total abstinence, belitering that such phases of the temporance question can be best handled by the various churches. While disclaiming any attempt to interfere with the personal liberty of any man, the league insistating the saloon as a legalized insitution is a social menace; that it breeds crime; that it is a source of political corruption; that it tonds to undermine the ruption; that it tends to undermine the home, the school and all industries, and that no citizen's liberty is restricted when such a flagrant form of temptation is removed from the thoroughfare. The saloon has taken refuge under the sover-eignty of the State of Virginia. From this shelter the league seeks to dislodge differences and unite their dentities into a cash of ordaring strength. The league is the clearing house it exists the content of the public content in the state of the content of the public content in the state of the content of the public content of the public ordanic of the content of the public content

Josh Billings' definition of "cook' is:
"One who manufakters appetights,"
If Josh was around here now, saying funny things, he might say that "DUN-LOP PATENT" PLOUR was the sturt "appetights" are made of.

Bread made from "DUNLOP PATENT" FLOUR certainly is an appetite builder. It's that kind that a hungry men could sit down and make a meal on, with a little good butter.

A good Judge of flour can tell by the above the ordinary in quality.

Dunlop Patent

is a wheat flour—but it's not an ordinary wheat flour. It is ground from the choicest grain our great wheat regions produce. It is ground by one of the best and most modern processes, with greatest care.

Absolutely a pure flour.

Makes bread light and wholesome, flakey rolls and tempting pastry—cake so light and delicate that it would never disturb a man's conscience after eating it.

It is sold on four continents, and made right here in Richmond. Your grocer sells it.
